POINCARE EXPECTED TO RESIGN AFTER FRENCH ELECTION

Paris, May 12. (INS.)—Prediction was made today that Premier Poincare and his cabinet would resign within 24 hours as a result of the defeat of the bloc national parties in the French general election.

A complete change of French policy towards German occupation, reparations and international debt loomed up today as a possibility as a result of the defeat of the Poincare parties in the French general election today.

The French people, evidently, are tired of Poincare's aggressive policies which have kept Europe stirred up for four years.

During his tenure Poincare has built up the most powerful military establishment in Europe, principally in the air. Also it has been part of his program to keep French troops in the Ruhr to guarantee indemnity payments, to refuse to make any immediate provision for the payment of war debts and to negotiate military agreements with various powers surrounding Germany. Such agreements have been concluded with Belgium, Poland, Roumania and Czecho Slovakia.

Former Premier David Lloyd George, of England, has been one of the most severe critics of Premier Poincare and his policies. According to the British statesmen, Poincare is the head of a powerful militarist group which is endangering the peace of Europe.

The people have spoken their will for peace, work and calmness. They evidently do not see the same perils on the eastern frontier that have caused Poincare so much anxiety.

On the basis of figures given out by the foreign office this afternoon, the left bloc claimed a majority of 90 in the Chamber of Deputies.

MORE DYSPEPSIA SEEKERS

The "Happy Regulars" Club met at Jordan's hotel Thursday evening and enjoyed one of Jordan's famous chicken dinners, and it being the first club dinner every one was prepared with something to say.

We also had speeches, recitations and readings. Prizes were awarded for the two best speeches. Miss Louise Graham captured first prize and Cordelia Shifter second prize.

After the eats had all vanished and despite the rain, we all hiked down to Driggs theatre and enjoyed seeing the picture "Black Oxen."

Everyone said they had a good time whether we had or not. We will say so, anyway. A COMMITTEE.

Major Martin And His Man Harvey Walk Into Camp Safe And Sound

For Eleven Days They Battled With Worst of Hardships In Effort to Locate An Habitation.

TO BE CALLED HOME

Port Moller, Alaska, May 12. (INS.)—Back from the jaws of death, Major Frederick Martin and Staff Sergeant Alva Harvey, of the flagplane Seattle of the American round-the-world cruise today awaited instructions from the air service at this tiny cannery port after a series of experiences that will go down in the history of air trail making as miraculous.

Missing since April 30, and given up for dead by hardened Alaskans when the most widespread search ever conducted on Alaskan soil failed to discover a trace of them, Major Martin and Sergeant Harvey walked in here yesterday and flashed the word to the world that they were alive and well.

Washington, May 12 (INS.)—Major Frederick L. Martin, leader of the army's around the world airplane flight, who has turend up safe at Port Moller, a small trading post on the bleak Alaskan Peninsula, after being lost in the wilderness for twelve days, will not attempt to continue the flight, it was said here today.

Orders probably will be dispatched to the flight commander and his assistant, Sergeant Alva Harvey, to return to the United States, leaving the other three planes to continue the journey.

News of Martin's safety, after crashing into a mountain peak and wrecking his flagship plane, the Seattle, was received with undisguised joy today in army, navy and government circles.

He crashed on April 30, and until his arrival on foot yesterday at Port Moller nothing has been heard of him, Sergeant Harvey or the plane.

Army officials said today it would be impractical for Martin to attempt to rejoin his companions, who are now some 1,500 miles beyond him and awaiting favorable conditions to hop off for Japan.

It would take weeks for a new plane and outfit to reach Martin and Harvey. Their own ship, the Seattle, is wrecked beyond any hope of salvage, according to the meager advices that have reached Washington.

The story of Martin's crash in the Aleutian range and the subsequent twelve days wandering in that little inhabited country before reaching a settlement is expected to prove an epic. The commander and his flight assistant were well equipped with emergency rations, matches and fire arms, however, and officers familiar with Alaskan conditions said it was probable the fliers experienced no hardships from the standpoint of hunger and thirst. Climatic conditions in that region are bad at this time of the year though and the physical difficulties of travelling are enormous there being no roads and few trails.

The arrival of the missing fliers at Port Moller, ends one of the most extensive searches ever instituted by the government for one of its lost representatives.

For 12 days the waters of Alaska have been searched by cutters, fishing vessels, destroyers and boats of every description. Dog teams have even been dispatched over the snowy wastes in an effort to locate the missing men.

YESTERDAY TRULY A MOTHER'S DAY

Connersville, Ind., May 12. (INS.)—Mrs. Nancy J. Martin celebrated her sixty-third birthday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Florence Nutty, near here today, more joyfully than any holiday she ever knew before.

For her Mother's Day greeting yesterday was a message that her son, Major Frederick K. Martin, U. S. army flier, had been found alive, after being missing for 10 days in Alaska.

She had given up all hope for her son's life and did not even believe his body would be found.

Illiterate 14 Year Old Wife Kills Husband With Pill She Thought Would Only Make Him Sick

Bartow, Fla., May 10 (INS.)—Mrs. Daisy Milton, 14 year old, is a prisoner in the Polk county jail here where she is held under a murder charge, following her arrest and confession today to Sheriff John Logan that she slipped a bicholoride of mercury tablet into her young husband's coffee just to make him sick," and from the effects of which Milton died a few days ago.

In a calm, collected manner, the girl wife told officers an amazing story. They had only been married two months, she said.

About 10 days ago a violent quarrel arose between them, Milton accusing his wife of receiving attentions from another man. This was untrue, she told the sheriff.

"My husband threatened to kill me" the girl related.

"I couldn't read very well, and I thought the tablet was medicine and I had no idea it would kill him."

800 Liquor Prosecutions Put In Jeopardy Because Of Charges On McClure

Philadelphia, May 12. (INS.)—Eight hundred liquor cases may be thrown out of local courts as the result of the dismissal of Wm. J. McClure, group head of the prohibition agents, it was pointed out here today.

Arthur A. Nichols, head of the special intelligence unit,, said that "[illegible] charges" had been lodged against McClure, but declined to make known the details. McClure's dismissal came on Saturday when Commissioner Haynes refused to accept his resignation.

McClure was government witness in the 800 cases and counsel for defendants in liquor cases have always been able to win verdicts of acquittal where a prohibition agent has been accused of misconduct in office.

Another Gun That Wasn't Loaded Is True To Form; Coal Dealer Kills Himself

Washington, May 12. (INS.)—Ambler M. Blick, 33, a prominent Capitol coal dealer, was dead today by his own hand, the result of toying with a revolver he thought was not loaded.

He had previously pointed the gun at his sister-in-law, Mrs. Gertrude Carew, and pulled the trigger to show her "it isn't loaded." Pointing the gun at his own head he pulled again and dropped to the floor with a bullet in his brain.

MISS MARGARET McDONALD

Death which came to Miss Margaret McDonald at her home on Cherry street at about 9 o'clock Saturday morning, robbed her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. P. McDonald, of a sweet, winsome daughter, who had just completed her education, having graduated from a convent school at Titusville, Pa., just a few months before being taken down with the illness which ended in her death.

She was born in Clearfield 18 years ago and was greatly esteemed in the circle in which she moved. She was an earnest student and overtaxed her frail physical system by close application to her studies during her senior year. An attack of tonsilitis several months ago was followed by a severe attack of rheumatism, which confined her to her room for weeks Heart trouble followed in the wake of her other ills and despite all that medical skill could do reinforced by the most tender and careful nursing she continued to fail and more than a month ago it became apparent to her grief-stricken parents, sister and brother that the end was inevitable and near at hand.

Despite the constant wearing inroads of disease Margaret never once gave up and made the gamest kind of an uphill fight but her strong determination to get well was unavailing God called her and the final summons was answered.

The death of this young lady just budding itno womanhood is indeed a sad blow to her loved ones who have the sympathy of the community in their loss.

The funeral will be held from St. Francis Catholic church Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock. Interment will made in Calvary cemetery.

A wave of genuine sorrow swept over this community Sunday morning with the announcement of the death of Charles A. Blyth, which occurred at the Rowles hospital on Pine street at 11:55 o'clock Saturday night, following an operation which he had undergone on Friday morning.

He received serious internal injuries and was confined to the Clearfield Hospital for several weeks but later got able to return to his work.

He was taken sick about ten days ago and taken to the Rowles hospital where an operation disclosed the serious nature of the injuries he suffered at the time of the wreck and which terminated in his death.

FLAG POLE ON TOP OF THE DIMELING CRASHES TO ROOF

Tragedy Averted by the Refusal of Manager to Permit An Employe to Climb Pole Last Week.

TEACHES A LESSON

The iron flag pole erected atop the Dimeling Hotel was blown over by a sweep of the east wind about 7:40 Sunday morning and fell over onto the roof of the hotel with a crash that bounced every guest out of bed.

The pole, which was constructed of galvanized iron pipe was about rusted through at the base when an extra strong gust of rain laden wind caught the flag at its top in honor of Mother's Day and snapped it off.

When putting up the flag the ropes caught for a time and one of the acrobatic bell-hops offered to climb the pole and straighten out the kinks but Manager McGarry refused to allow him to do so, and this action undoubtedly averted a tragedy, as it is felt the weakened pole would have snapped off under the young man's weight and would likely have fallen to the street, seven stories below, with him.

This accident should serve to call the attention of the Borough authorities to the other flag poles about the town, also the many signs swinging on pipes and chains out over the sidewalk. An examination of all such should be made to avoid possible serious accident.

How You Can Do A Week's Cleaning In Three Days

Many women in this city have a better way of cleaning house that cuts work in two.

The very first thing, they bundle up their curtains, washable drapes, and valances, wash rugs, blankets, spreads, pillows, chair covers, and other things that need freshening. Then they phone us, and our representative calls for them, leaving the housewives free to go ahead with their scouring and cleaning. Just about the time this work is finished, home comes their bundle with everything sweet and fresh, ready for another term of service.

Try this saving way of housecleaning; see how much better progress you make and how much more rested you feel after it's all over. Phone us and we'll call promptly.

ODDS AND ENDS AND THINGS

By J. D. C.

There is an old saying, "Murder will out." Not long ago Colliers Week'y conducted a nation-wide contest for letters on prohibition. Twenty-four prize winning letters were selected from over the 30,000 submitted, and published in Colliers. One of these which we reprinted in this column purported to be written by Joe Simco, a Curwensville miner, and we mentioned that he not only wielded a wicked pick, but a wicked pen as well. Accidentally we have learned that Joe Simco is the pen name of Harold V. Smith, of Curwensville. One of Mr. Smith's stories, "Out of the Air," appears in the June number of "Action Stories," a popular men's magazine, under his own name.

MAJOR MARTIN

While [illegible] details of Martin's experience, army officials hastened today to speak high praise for the courageous fight the flight commander and his assistant put up against terrific odds.

"The game fight which the aviators undoubtedly made getting into port is an inspiration to the entire service," said Secretary Weeks.

Major Martin and Sergeant Harvey left Chignik about 11 a. m. April 30 headed for Dutch Harbor where they hoped to catch up with their three companion fliers. A scant hundred miles west of Chignik the giant Douglas plane flagship of the globe circling cruise in a dense fog and snow storm crashed into a mountain.

It was completely wrecked but fortunately according to Major Martin neither of its occupants sustained serious injuries.

Then began a battle against cold, snow and ice.

"Our existence is due to the reserve supply of concentrated food which we carried in the plane for just such an emergency," Major Martin declared in announcing the safety of himself and mechanic.

This food supply was undamaged in the crash and due to its concentrated form was readily portable.

The two fliers headed for the coast on foot and finally reached an abandoned trapper's cabin on the southern most point of Point Moller Bay.

There exhausted by their battle against the severe conditions which had confronted them, the two fliers rested for three days.

Meanwhile every possible agency was being utilized in a search for the two men. The coast guard cutters Algonquin and Haida and the coast survey ship pioneer assisted by every available cannery vessel in the Aleutian Peninsula waters conducted a hunt along the rugged coast line while searching parties of Indians and trappers went far inland.

Washington, May 12. (INS.)—Maj. Frederick L. Martin, leader of the army's round-the-world flight, who has been in a series of mishaps since the start of the epochal trip, was ordered back to Washington today, and the remainder of the flight will go on without him.

The following announcement was made by the War Department:

"With the approval of Secretary of War Weeks, the chief of the air service, Gen. Mason M. Patrick, has sent the following telegram to Maj. Martin:

"'We rejoice and thank God that you are both safe and well. Confidence in you unabated. You have proved yourself. Still want you to command flight. Can not arrange for you to overtake others by going on west. You and Sergeant Harvey will report to me here without delay. Plan to send you east to rejoin flight at furtherest convenient point from which you can complete the journey with the rest of your command.'"

TIMBER—MINE OR CROP?

The present annual drain on the country's forests is something like 25 billion cubic feet. The Federal Forest Service announces that with proper logging methods, reforestation and fire protection, the annual growth under intensive forestry could be 27,000,000,000 cubic feet. Instead it is only 6,000,000,000 cubic feet.

It is hard to make the public connect the price of lumber with a national forestry policy. Yet if that were done soon, the future of the nation's timber supply would cease to be a cause for worry. The irresponsible attitude which permits the annual cutting, burning and other destruction of four times as much wood as is grown each year is almost criminally shortsighted.

The time to remedy this situation is now while there is still some virgin forest standing. It involves only a change in policy from one of consuming entirely a given natural resource to one of harvesting a continually renewed crop. The Forest Service knows how. A few wise lumber companies know how and are already enforcing such a policy. If the public in general took the matter seriously, the legislative bodies of both nation and states would take the nacessary steps to make that policy completely effective throughout the coutnry.

PRACTICAL POLITICAL ADVICE

President Coolidge made an unusually frank, direct talk on politics the other day to a group of women voters who called on him at the White House. As a lesson in practical politics it is worth heeding by representatives of both sexes and both parties, and is applicable to all alike.

"I have been in public life for some time," said Mr. Coolidge, "and I learned to say a long time ago that I was through looking for ideal candidates for office. They don't exist, and we have to make the best of what we have, for it is only in that way [illegible] we shall be able to make any progress.

"Now get candidates that are just as near your ideals as possible. After you have done that, do what you can to elect your candidates, and to support the principles that they represent. If we are to promote good government, if we are to promote good principles, it must be by the support of the men and women that represent those principles."

That, of course, is mere common sense, yet it is often overlooked by people who, with the highest ideals, fail to accomplish anything for lack of practical procedure. Government cannot function in a vacuum. Any government is a government of men, and men are fallible and weak, like those who elected them. It is well, while aiming always at the highest, to make the best of the human material available—to get the best out of the available candidates at election time, and out of the men elected after election, instead of antagonizing them or giving up in disgust because they are demigods.

Progress Editorials for Women

WHEN THE WHISTLE WILL BLOW

By Florence Davies.

At last somebody has arisen to demand union hours for housewives. For many years, even many aeons, making a home wasn't supposed to be a real occupation. Just something taken for granted like getting up in the morning or eating when you are hungry. Uncle Sam had to be shown that housekeeping was enough of a job to go down on the census returns as a business as worthy as teaching or clerking.

But it has always been supposed that wives, like "hired girls" should be ready to respond to any call from early morn to late bedtime. Father could change to his slippers and sink into the easiest chair with the thankful realization that his working day was definitely over, but mother must remain at attention—we all know how it works.

Now comes Agnes Fay Morgan with a Dr before her name, showing that she has delved deeply into something serious and been given a degree therefore, and says she, "System is the chief essential for the union hour idea and the leaving in the discard of long hours of drudgery."

Dr. Agnes is head of the houshold science department of the University of California, and she is teaching the girls in her classes that it isn't necessary to carry [illegible] in order to profit by union hours of labor. Husbands, she declares, are going to relish seeing their wives [illegible] and prettily gowned at night and ready to be companionable during the evening, all because of that system by which their work has been cleared out of the way early, to [illegible] left loose. She even believes that everything about the house may be done by noon with all the new labor saving appliances.

In one of her books, written more than 50 years ago, Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe tells of a New England housewife saying she and her daughter always expected to be through with their housework at noon and ready for visitors or any other recreation. So it seems that the Pacific coast didn't originate this 12 o'clock idea, but California girls are evidently the first to be taught to plan their home-making on a union hour basis.

"Psychology proves that a tranquil mind leads more to happiness than anything else," Dr. Morgan is quoted as saying. "Therefore if women are happy in their work and have a contented, rested mind as well as a body they will naturally [illegible] happier and will naturally [illegible] their families to be the same."

Maybe Dr. Morgan [illegible] a fine piece of [illegible] work in preaching SYSTEM [illegible] to those bright western girls.

JAMES SUTTON, SR.

James Sutton, Sr., one of Clearfield's best known Civil war veterans, who had resided in this community for the past 56 years and who passed away at his home on Locust street at 9:15 o'clock Friday May 9, 1924, was born at Brady's Bend, Armstrong county on Feb. 8, 1847, being therefore in his 78th year at the time of his death.

At the outbreak of the Civil war he enlisted in Co. A, 5th Regiment P. Vol. Artillery, and served with honor and credit during the term of his enlistment. He was a painter by trade and on July 30, 1868, came to Clearfield to engage in that business and had since resided here. He was an expert workman and being energetic and industrious soon built up a lucrative business, following this work until advancing years caused him to retire but a year or so ago.

"Comrade Sutton," as he was familiarly known, was an expert fifer, and his services were always in demand on all public occasions, where the stirring martial music was in demand, traveling in this capacity all over the county and throughout this section of the state. He was one of the pioneer members of Larimer Post G. A. R. and Clearfield Fire Co. No. 1 and was an active and energetic member of both organizations during his membership.

He was a member of Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church for more than 54 years and lived a consistent christian life. On May 19, 1870, he was united in marriage with Mary E. Smith, who survives him with the following sons and daughter —James Jr., of Pittsburgh; William H., of Clearfield, and Mrs. Ida Townsend of Williamsport. Three grandchildren and two great-grandchildren also survive. He is also survived by two brothers, Robert, of East Brady, and William, of Ohio.

The funeral was held from the Sutton home on Locust street this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The services were conducted by Rev. Bell, assisted by Rev. John P. McCurdy. Interment was made in Hillcrest cemetery.

Royal Man

ROYAL Electric Cleaner is more than a machine to clean your home quickly, easily and thoroughly. It does all that, of course—and does it better than any cleaning method we know. But the Royal Cleaner's greatest service is in saving your health, your strength, your nervous energy—even your complexion is clearer, your hands whiter, your eyes brighter, when the sturdy little Royal does the drudgery of cleaning and leaves you free for the finer and more important duties of life.

We would like to show you the Royal. See it at our store, or let our Royal Man call and clean a rug in your own home. Absolutely no obligation. Telephone an appointment at your convenience.

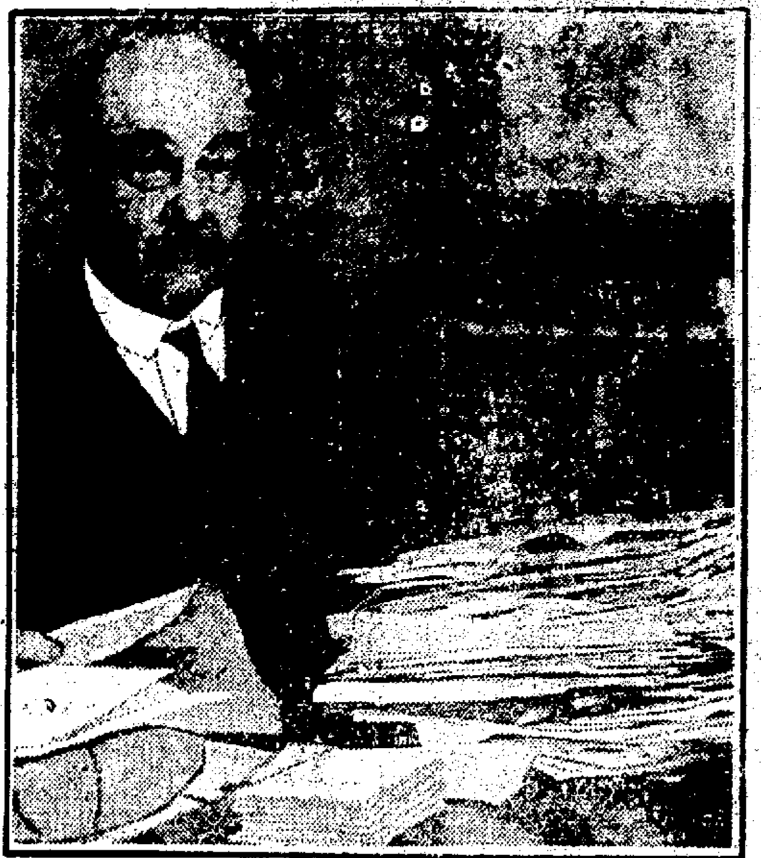
Wry Commentaries on Rye Question



Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, shown in his office surrounded by one-half of one per cent of the mail that has showered upon him since he opened fire on prohibition. Hundreds of them, from all parts of the nation, take the educator to task while hundreds more pat him on the back, as it were.

REAL VIEW OF ITALY IN BIG GISH SPECIAL

Would you like to see Rome, the city of the seven eternal hills? Would you like to visit Mt. Vesuvius, Italy's death-belching volcano? Would you like to enjoy the charm of Sorrento, the jewel of Italy's north-Naples, with its bay of blue—ancient Tivoli, the town of narrow torturous streets?

You don't have to visit Italy to see these natural grandeurs. They from the setting for Lillian Gish's greatest dramatic triumph, "The White Sister", which is coming Wed and Thurs., May 14-15, to the Driggs Theatre. Inspiration Pictures determined to bring the fascinating beauty of Italy back to America by means of the screen.

"The White Sister" was chosen as the first film to be reproduced entirely overseas. It has been the outstanding artistic triumph of the present motion picture season and the work of Lillian Gish, the screen's greatest artists, in the leading role, has been characterized as better than anything she has ever done in the past.

The picture is a Henry King production for Inspiration Pictures, Charles H. Duell, Jr., president ,and is distributed by Metro.

Twice Daily, 2:30 and 8:15. No reserved seats. Special orchestra music.

Mrs. Clara Stewart, who is living at Tyrone, came over to the home of her daughter, Mrs. Reed Barger, at Woodland, yesterday and will spend a week or two there.

By the turn of a lever she has just the heat she wants for stewing fruit

Does your kitchen stove take the starch out of you?

WHAT can wilt you more completely—your gown, your hair, your spirits—than a roaring fire in the cook stove? The moment you put a Florence Oil Range in your kitchen you will realize that it is quite possible to cook in real comfort.

With a Florence you get all the heat you want, but it goes into the cooking instead of into the metal of the stove or out into the room. You can bake, roast, fry and boil with this modern oil range. And, of course, you use it only when actually cooking. This means not only comfort but economy.

So easy to start

You just touch a match to the Asbestos Kindler. In a few moments you have an intensely hot blue flame, close up under the cooking. Turn a lever and you can regulate the heat to any degree desired.

The vapor from kerosene is what burns. It is not a wick flame. Kerosene is a cheap and plentiful fuel. You will find that the Florence cuts down your household bills.

See it at the store

Take a few minutes and examine this modern range in a store. (It is sold by leading department, furniture, and hardware stores.) Notice the quality of the porcelain enamel, the sturdiness of the whole range. The oil reservoir is metal. The oven has the famous "baker's arch" and our patented heat-spreader to distribute the heat evenly.

The Big Burners
The heat in the Florence burners is close up under the cooking where it is not wasted.

Florence Leveler
Attached to each leg of the stove, this device enables you to set the stove level on an uneven floor.

Curwensville's Own Column

Yesterday was universally celebrated in Curwensville churches as "Mother's Day". The pastors preached from that topic at the morning services to large congregations. The emblem or flower that has been adopted, a white carnation, to designate the day was worn by hundreds of our people both great and small and the demand for that special flower was greater than the supply.

At the Presbyterian church Rev. Bertram Conley, the able and hard working pastor of that denomination, had for his morning subject, "Mother" which he handled in such a manner that it brought tears to the eyes of many of his hearers who permitted memory to lapse backward into space of boyhood and girlhood days when "mother," the sympathetic friend and counselor, comforted them in all trials. Miss Irene Sykes, contributed a part to the services by singing a very sweet and touching solo entitled "Old Fashioned Dear." At the evening services she sang again, this time chosing a touching song "Songs My Mother Taught Me." The evening sermon was from the point of "Practical Christianity," and was one which furnished much food for future action of life and thought. The floral tribute Sunday was contributed by Mrs. Rose Sweney and Mr. and Mrs. Chas Sweney.

Rev. I. F. Fineout, the able pastor and [illegible] of the Baptist church, chose for his morning discourse an appropriate theme and one of more than usual intensity, "The Mother [illegible] the Father." Rev. Fineout, while [illegible] in our midst only a few [illegible] has made a great many [illegible] friends, and, as one old hard-[illegible] informed us who is seldom seen inside of a house of worship [illegible] heard his Sunday [illegible] "he is a he man and [illegible] even though he strikes out at you straight from the shoulders and hits you between the [illegible]." Since his sojourn among us he has increased the Sunday school membership from a half dozen pupils to some one hundred and [illegible]. In the evening he discoursed [illegible] the subject, "Analysis [illegible]."

At the Methodist Episcopal edifice [illegible] than usual number of non [illegible] attended both morning and [illegible]. Dr. Adams preached [illegible] forcible sermon in [illegible] from the beautiful [illegible] A Good Mother". His line, a [illegible] the trials and tribulations [illegible] by her in bringing [illegible] a period of mature [illegible] teaching the evening [illegible] prayer to each "Now I lay me down to sleep," etc; her love and [illegible] displayed in all their childhood ills and cares; the stronger [illegible] as they grew to years of understanding to good citizenship and [illegible] illustrating that there [illegible] love stronger than a mother's [illegible] for her children, except the [illegible] alone. The choir music was [illegible] and selected for this particular occasion. Evening subject "The Day of Opportunity."

At the St. Timothy Catholic church while Father Lynch did not have any particular line of talk relative to Mother's Day, he, nevertheless, wove in many fine thoughts during his service as to the duty of child to mother, she being the guiding staff of the future and mature life of the child. Christian thoughts were imbued by the mother in the mind of the child which took root and grew and never faded or entirely died from the mind during life. The word "mother" brings a flood of thought from the mind of the outcast; he may neglect and forget every honest purpose in life, but to his dying day, no difference what his end my be, the thought of "mother" is foremost in thought.

Miss Ro[illegible] Williams, who works at the printing trade in the Clearfield Republican office, has been off for a week nursing blood poisoning in her hand.

Miss Eva Jane Smith, whose home is in Falls Creek, Pa., a missionary home on a furlough, will be at the Presbyterian church on Wednesday evening. She will tell of her work in the schools for non-Christian girls in India, and also of the progress of the work in her district.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie, of Falls Creek, spent Sunday as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Benny Kime, North Pine street.

Origin of Americans

The habit of calling inhabitants of this country Americans probably arose from the fact that any other distinctive title is awkward. Canada lends itself easily to the forming of the noun Canadians, Mexico to Mexicans. Citizens of the United States of America are most conveniently designated as Americans.

How Chief Got His Name

It is said that "Rain-in-the-Face" received his name as the result of a personal encounter when about ten years of age with a Cheyenne boy whom he worsted; he received several blows in the face, causing it to be spattered with blood and streaks where the paint had been washed away.

Knighthood

Knighthood was originally a military distinction, but in the Sixteenth century it came to be conferred on civilians as a reward for valuable services rendered to the crown or the community. The first civil knight in England was Sir William Walworth, lord mayor of London, who won the distinction by slaying the rebel Wat Tyler, in the presence of the King.

If You Can't Sleep At Night Try Some Milk Before Retiring

Many people find that if they cannot sleep, they try a bottle of milk before going to bed and this brings refreshing sleep in a very short time. The reason therefor is very simple. Your stomach is empty and craves something to fill it but you don't realize it.

Drinking a small bottle of milk or even a glass of milk will satisfy that craving for something to eat and you've given your stomach the most easily digested food known to man. The craving for food is satisfied but in such a form that the digestive juices will work without keeping you awake as they might in the case you ate something of a less digestive nature.

"EVERY BOY AND GIRL IN CLEARFIELD A SWIMMER

* * * *

Community Campaign at Y. M. C. A. Pool

For a number of years the National American Red Cross Society has been promoting with excellent results the slogan 'Every Boy and Girl a Swimmer' with the idea of saving thousands of lives each year. During the month of May over the nation free swimming lessons have been given the youth of the country so that they are able to take care of themselves during the summer months, when they 'cool off' in the swimming holes, bathing beaches etc.

Clearfield will be included in this national program of swimming instruction this year as next week is set aside for this purpose. Every boy in the Community, who cannot swim enough to take good care of himself in deep water, is encouraged … advantage of the five free lessons to be given the boys in groups by Director of Physical Education, G. Leslie Shannon. The 20 x 60 ft. swimming pool at the Y. M. C. A. will be used to give the lessons, to boys aged 11 to 18.

The boys will come from the public schools in groups according to schedule during the mornings starting Monday, bringing towel and soap with them and receive instruction under trained leadership.

Boys who are employed during the day and under 18 years of age are eligible for the free instruction, they must make application at the Y. M. C. A. office not later than Saturday evening, and be assigned to a period when instruction will be given in the evening. The girls of Clearfield will have special classes at a later date.

MRS. GEORGE W. SNYDER DIES

DOES IT PAY TO ADVERTISE

A Whimsical Indictment of Advertising and Mr. Calkins' Reply.

"On October 15, 1924, the entire population of the United States woke up to find that during the night mysteriously, every advertisement had been erased from everything."

In a chuckling moment, Winifred Kirkland conceived the idea of a world in which there would be no advertising, and in the March Century, as Smith Jones, an eminent psychologist writing thirty years later, she discusses this world.

The high cost of living went down three steps at a time because no one bought anything he didn't need. A sudden impetus was given to all forms of American life and art, agriculture, education, literature. The greatest improvement of all, however, was found in politics, and American ideals improved enormously when it became impossible to talk about them.

Enrest Elm Calkins, the distinguished advertising man, replies to her indictment of advertising. In the April Century as Smith Jones' great-grand nephew, writing fifty years after Smith Jones' death, he describes the gradual retrogression of our civilization after the effects of the era of advertising had completely disappeared.

He described the breakdown of the giant machine of distribution when it was no longer supported by advertising and selling. This great system which had in a large measure protected the public health and provided the people with necessities and luxuries at nominal prices ,degenerated into small town country stores.

The breaking down of distribution caused the disappearance of the shaving habit until a group of middle aged business men looked like a frieze of minor prophets. Such things as vacuum cleaners entirely disappeared and house wives swept with brooms similar to those green keepers used to sweep worm casts from the putting greens in the days when many people played an expensie and foolish game known as golf.

The entire disappearance of advertising brought about a return to the life of the Middle Ages and 80 years after the eventful day of October 15, 1924, a prize of $100,000 was offered to any one who would invent a practical and satisfactory substitute for advertising and selling.

Absent-Minded People

Speaking of absent-minded people, we unearth the fact that Adam Smith, the political economist, was also absent-minded. One Sunday morning he walked 12 miles along the king's highway and presented himself in a crowded church clothed solely in his nightshirt.—Alice Mason Johnson, in Brooklyn Eagle.

Clear Thinking

To do much clear thinking a man must arrange for regular periods of solitude when he can concentrate and indulge his imagination without distraction. Working at night always appealed to me because then most people are minding their own business by going to sleep.—Edison.

Too Ambitious

The colonel was delivering an address to junior officers up for examination. He dwelt with much emphasis on the fact that each officer should devote the intervening time to prepare for the final examination. "The examination papers are now in the hands of the printer Are there any questions to be asked?" Silence prevailed. Suddenly a voice from the rear quietly inquired: "Who's the printer, sir?"
